Week of Evangelistic Services Ended -Trolleymens' Union Elects Officers -Shetucket River High.

The last meeting and also the best attended of the week of union evan-gelical services was held Friday eve-ning in the Greeneville Congregationning in the Greeneville Congregational church. The attendances have increased nightly and there were 250 in the congregation that heard Rev. P. C. Wright preach an inspiring sermon on The Life Climb, Friday evening. Rev. Mr. Wright compared the climb of life with the climbing of mountains. He pointed out the similarity in the struggle toward the mountain-top and the attainment of the goal of life. He emphasized the need of a guide and of close companionship during the climb. ing the climb.

In view of the interest taken, it is possible that evangelist services may be held on one or more evenings of the coming week.

The series of whists between the Temperance society and the Open House starts next Friday at the latter club.

A new pool table has been received this will be another attractive feature for the members. The committee who secured the table comprised C. J. Downes, David Farrell and James McNerney.

The cribbage tournament is nearly closed and Thomas Delaney has the best chance of coming out first, Daniel Cummings, William Supa, Levdore Gladue and Thomas Sweeney having been practically eliminated from the race. A pinochle tournament is thought of by some of the members.

The water in the Shetucket river, swollen by the rains and melting snow, has reached a higher point this week than in months. The ice above the dam remained unbroken Friday, but below the dam the ice had been split up and many cakes were caviled. split up and many cakes were carried

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The Chelsea Savings Bank. Norwich, Conn. Jan. 7, 1816
At a special meeting of the Board
Directors, held this day, the followl minute and resolution were adopted:
Charles H. Preston was elected rector in 1890, and a Vice President in 1991.

Since his election he has shown a warm interest in the affairs of the bank, and his wide acquaintance and sound judgment have made him a valued counsellor, while his cheery, cordial manner and kindly heart have endeared him to every member as a personal friend.

Realizing the loss this institution has sustained in his death, we are also mindful that Mr. Preston will be sadly missed by many interests in this community, in which his public spirit, his liberality, and his kind and upright life have won him so high a place in the regard of an unusually large circle of friends.

Therefore, Resolved, That we respectfully tender to the family of our late associate our sincere sympathy in their deep affliction, and that as a token of respect we will together aftend the funeral services; and will cause this minute to be entered in the records of the bank and be published in the city papers and a copy sent to the family.
